Dry Whey - Central U.S.

Report 25 - Released on June 24, 2021

Dry whey prices slipped in all facets. Producers say in order to move loads, they have needed to lower prices. Buyers are, and continue, to push back at prices over the $.60 mark. Availability is not noted as excessive, but inventories have grown, nonetheless. There is a lot of milk in the region, and cheesemakers continue to report busy production schedules. Still, some manufacturers say that when whey solids are available, they are moving into high protein blend production. Animal feed whey prices slipped on the top of the range. Contacts say with more deproteinized whey and whey permeate available, feed grade whey interests are limited. Dry whey market tones are unassured.
