Dry Whey - Central U.S.

Report 7 - Released on February 16, 2023

Dry whey prices moved higher at all points, except for the top of the range, which held steady at $.43. Spot trading activity was notably busy again this week. Price points are shifting into the high $.30s more regularly than last week. Some brand preferred trades are moving in the low $.40s. Some contacts relay reports of Southeast Asian customers reentering the market. On a more bearish note, there continue to be increases in dry whey production as high protein markets continue to trend bearishly. All said, markets are uncertain. Animal feed whey prices are unchanged following last week's increase.
